Exhibit A Scope of Work

City of Richmond For All Youth Workforce Development Program RFA#JP12-002

Section 1: Program Goals

The COVID-19 pandemic and accompanying economic downturn are having staggering effects on young adults. Young people are typically among the hardest-hit groups during recessions and getting off to a bad start in the labor market can have long-term effects.

Prior to the pandemic, young people aged 16 -24 were already disproportionately adversely affected in the labor markets compared to other age groups. Even as the nation enjoyed record low unemployment rates between 2016 and early 2020, young people experienced unemployment rates twice as high as the national average. Experts estimate that the number of young people between the ages of 16 -24 who are not in school or working will easily top 6 million and could swell to almost one-quarter of all young people.

Thus, young people are facing a catastrophic crisis, and we can't wait to act. The window for action is open, but we need to move swiftly. We need a society, economy and community designed to care for all people, especially young people, who are the most important and most affected stakeholder when talking about our global future.

Therefore, the City of Richmond has made young people the heart of its COVID-19 recovery by helping them prepare for work and life as engaged citizens. Richmond has prioritized education, civic engagement, and employment for Richmond youth.

Our goals are as follows:

- Improve the health and well-being of the community by providing valuable educational, social, and environmental services
- Prevent long-term unemployment among young adults and reduce economic hardship.
- Help young people prepare for future good jobs by offering a more affordable route to postsecondary education and giving them the chance to learn new skills, gain work experience, and expand their social and professional networks.
- Rebuild civic and social connections by bringing participants from different backgrounds, income levels, races, ethnicities and area of the city together to share experiences to solve public challenges.

Section 2: Program Design

We cannot fail in the crucial task of promoting equal opportunities for all young people to thrive. The pandemic has interrupted the education, socialization, and employment of tens of millions of children and young adults – disproportionately hurting those from low-income families and communities of color.

As we recover, we must aim higher and think bigger, rather than returning to the economic and social status quo.

It is our responsibility, as local government, to provide an avenue for young people to support themselves financially, carry out meaningful and productive work, learn new skills, and expand their networks to prepare for a leadership role in the future.

The City of Richmond For All Youth Workforce Program is designed and administered by Richmond YouthWORKS, a department within the city, in partnership with the Richmond Police Activities League, RichmondBuild, Richmond YouthBuild, Richmond Office of Neighborhood Safety, Richmond Police Cadet, Richmond Fire Department Explorers, West Contra Costa Unified School District, THIMBY, and Contra Costa College.

All program partners have over 10 years of providing youth development and employment and training opportunities for at-risk, low income Richmond youth.

In addition, we will partner with several community-based organization to provide a holistic approach to addressing the needs of the young people who participate in the program.

The program will target 150 at-risk, low-income Richmond youth, ages 16 – 30, who identify as Opportunity Youth (unemployed/not in school), justice-involved, or have aged out of the foster care system. We will serve a minimum of 75 youth per year in year-round/summer employment opportunities beginning May 1, 2022.

The program will focus on building and expanding career pathways, addressing climate control and food insecurities, and provide meaningful service opportunities to assist COVID-19 recovery in the community.

Each youth referred to the program will go through an intake process which includes a resiliency and needs assessment. Upon completion of their assessments, each participant will receive a Career Action Plan. A career action plan is a dynamic planning document owned and managed by young people intended to reflect their increased career development learning. The plan helps young people: set their goals. clarify the actions needed to achieve these goals.

Participants can participate in the following programs:

- Career Support – All participants will be required to attend our Career Support workshops. The workshops designed to prepare youth for employment providing soft skills training in order to increase the youth's employability in a short amount of time. The workshop is comprised of modules on professionalism, workplace conflict resolution, workplace safety, financial management, resume writing, job search and interview techniques and job retention.

- Life Skills – All participants will be required to attend our Life Skills workshops. The workshops give youth the ability to learn new skills that increase their understanding of the world around them and equip them with the tools they need to live a more productive and fulfilling life; to finding ways to cope with the challenges that life, inevitably, throws at them.
- Public works and environmental conservation/restoration program – Participants will address long-standing conservation, restoration, and climate change needs such as maintenance backlog in public parks, and coastal ecosystem restoration, neighborhood beautification, and disaster preparedness as a result of COVID-19.
- RPAL Farm, Garden and Culinary Arts program – Participants will be introduced to the local agricultural industry and build new and essential life skills through farming, gardening, cooking and food literacy. Young people will have the ability to make healthy food choices by having the skills and knowledge necessary to buy, grow, and cook food with implication for improving individual, family, and community health.
- Tiny House In My Backyard (THIMBY) – Participants will participate in the design and construction of carbon neutral, off-grid capable transitional housing for low-income and unhoused Richmond residents. This student-led housing initiative was developed by UC Berkeley students to address the acute housing crisis in the region, which has been especially exacerbated in the wake of COVID-19.
- Public Service & Safety Corp – A career pathway program and pipeline that teaches the critical skills needed for and entry into public service and safety careers.
- RichmondBuild and YouthBuild - Participants work toward their GEDs or high school diplomas (if appropriate), learn job skills, and work on community projects. The program provides participants with intensive hands-on training in industry-recognized certifications and supports their progress toward a lucrative career in the construction industry.

Section 3: Youth Recruitment/Development

Participants for the City of Richmond For All Youth Workforce Development program are at-risk, low-income Richmond Youth, ages 16 – 30, who identify as Opportunity Youth (unemployed/not in school), justice-involved, and/or have aged out of the foster care system.

There are various entry points into to the program; inhouse recruitment and partnering agencies referral. Richmond YouthWORKS is a youth development program that focuses on provided employment and training opportunities to Richmond youth ages 16 – 24.

Richmond YouthWORKS along with RichmondBuild and Richmond YouthBuild are under the auspices of the City of Richmond's Employment & Training Department and will be a pipeline for recruitment.

In addition, the department, in partnership with West Contra Costa Unified School District, Contra Costa Office of Education, and Contra Costa Community College, provide employment opportunities for 500 Richmond youth during the summer.

Furthermore, we receive referrals from law enforcement agencies, community-based organizations, probation, and independent living programs.

Lastly, the City of Richmond utilizes several outreach platforms to provide information to the community. These platforms include:

- Television station
- Mayor's weekly blog
- Community Newspaper
- City Manager's weekly report
- Social media outlets (i.e., Facebook, Twitter, Instagram)

As stated above, we will partner with several community-based organization to provide a holistic approach to addressing the needs of the young people who participate in the program. These services include:

- Case Management,
- Transportation assistance,
- Referral to substance abuse treatment and mental health counseling,
- Assistance with childcare,
- Assistance with housing,
- Legal aid services,
- Referrals to healthcare,
- Assistance with uniforms and other work attire and work-related tools and gear,
- Assistance with book, fees, and school supplies, and
- Payments for fees for employing and training-related applications, tests, and certifications.

Section 4: Metrics/Outcomes

As a workforce development system, we are competent in data collection for outcome measures. We are very confident in our ability to provide the required metrics for the grant. We have the capability and capacity to utilize our current MIS system, CalJobs, to capture the required outcome metrics which are aligned with the Workforce Innovation and Opportunity Act (WIOA) metrics that govern our funding.

Section 5: Budget/Staffing/Communication

The City of Richmond commits to using CaliforniaVolunteers developed branding for this program and will participate in CaliforniaVolunteers-organized training/curriculum if required.

In addition, if funded, we would be interested in participating in a program launch media event with CaliforniaVolunteers.
